

WAYS TO START

WRITING

WANT TO START WRITING BUT DON'T HAVE THE TIME OR RESOURCES? TAKE A LOOK AT MY HANDY LIST TO HELP YOU START WRITING TODAY!

GAME OF PHONES

Out and about? Or maybe you're lying in bed dozing off when that idea for the next bestseller hits you like a lightning bolt? Use the 'Notes' section on your phone to quickly scribble down any flashes of inspiration that come to you. Once you're done, you can then email them to yourself to save you from writing them up again later - win-win!

AUDIO WIZARD

Your phone has another handy feature that you can use if you're unable to type out your ideas - use the 'Voice Memo' function to record your musings. Bonus: you can also try out all those different character voices you've been dying to practice!

NETFLIX & WRITE

You come home from work, turn on the TV and that's you done for the evening. While you're catching up on the latest episode of Orange is the New Black, why not use that time to work on your latest masterpiece? There's nothing quite like the sound of a prison riot happening in the background to motivate you to write that fight scene!

CLICK & SEND

Working hard or hardly working? If you've got a spare ten minutes during your work day or you're on your lunch break, quickly compose email with that new scene in and then send it to yourself. You can always edit it later. Bonus: it's quick, easy and it means that if your computer crashes, you'll have a version of it saved!

SCRIBBLE IT

If you prefer the simpler times, or you've suffered from a technology blackout, there's nothing wrong with good ol' fashioned pen and paper. Carry a spare notepad and pen in your bag or stashed away in your desk or bedside cabinet for when inspiration strikes!
